

Palos Verdes Peninsula Land Conservancy

invites you to become an intern

restoration program intern

PRESERVE RESTORE
EDUCATE
ENJOY

Description

A restoration program intern will work under the direction of the Volunteer Coordinator to help lead Outdoor Volunteer Days held every Saturday at various preserves and help maintain and monitor restoration projects. Tasks will include monitoring restoration sites prior to volunteer days, non-native, and native plant identification, restoration task leadership during events, leadership support at special events, and surveys of high-priority restoration projects during the week.

Project Leader

Megan Roy,
Volunteer Coordinator

To Apply

Visit <https://pvplc.org/volunteer> and click on "intern application" on the bottom left side of the page. If you have any questions, contact:

Lynn Rotunno
Volunteer Program Manager
310-541-7613 x 215
lrotunno@pvplc.org

REQUIREMENTS

- currently 18 years or older
- demonstrated leadership skills and works well with volunteers
- interest in biology, native plant gardening, or restoration ecology
- ability to do substantial amounts of strenuous work in the field
- ability to work independently

Timeframe

Internships begin in January, June, and September with a 3 month minimum requested

OPPORTUNITIES

- educational assistant
- field & nursery assistant
- media assistant
- native garden intern
- restoration program Intern