PALOS VERDES PENINSULA LAND CONSERVANCY

2024 ANNUAL REPORT

Dear Supporters and Friends

As we look back on 2024, we are inspired by what we have achieved together in our ongoing mission to protect and restore the natural lands of the Palos Verdes Peninsula. This year marked an extraordinary period of progress, innovation, and resilience, thanks to the unwavering support of our generous community, city partners, agency collaborators, and a dedicated team of volunteers and staff.

We accelerated the restoration of land to create more fire resilient preserves and to support local biodiversity that makes the Peninsula so unique. By expanding effective grazing programs and deploying conservation corps teams to eradicate invasive species and replanting native vegetation, we enhanced the ecological health of key habitats. These efforts not only reduce wildfire risk but also provide critical refuge for native plants and wildlife while preserving the beauty of the Peninsula.

Our accelerated restoration strategy also requires more native plants and native seeds to transform 200 acres over the next 10 years. In response, we have launched a native seed farm to develop a bank of seeds with local genetics evolved to thrive on the Peninsula and to cultivate seeds of rare species to protect against their possible extinction.

Among the year's most exciting milestones was the doubling of sightings of the Palos Verdes blue butterfly in the wild. This rare and endangered species is found nowhere else in the world, and the early stages of a resurgence provides hope and testament that our sustained habitat restoration efforts are resulting in positive outcomes to restore the health of this coastal sage scrub ecosystem.

This year also tested the resilience of our community in profound ways. The impacts of the Portuguese Bend landslide complex brought loss and disruption affecting our supporters as well as members of our staff and board suffering damaged homes and loss of access to utilities, cherished landmarks, and public trails. In the face of these challenges, we witnessed incredible strength and unity. The Conservancy worked closely with the city of Rancho Palos Verdes, adapting restoration activities and doubling efforts to monitor biological resources to ensure the city's landslide mitigation work was unimpeded and coordinated around sensitive natural resources.

Through all of these challenges and achievements, one thing has remained clear: our community's deep-rooted commitment to protecting this unique and irreplaceable landscape. The success of 2024 is not just reflected in acres restored or species recovered—it is seen in the renewed vitality of our open spaces and the growing momentum behind our shared vision for a resilient Peninsula.

Thank you for being part of this journey. Together, we are safeguarding the Peninsula's natural legacy for generations to come.

The Palos Verdes Peninsula Land Conservancy receives multi-year grant funding from various sources, which in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, are recorded in the period received or pledged. Expenditures related to these grants can occur over several years. As a result, timing differences are created which can affect the changes in net assets. Financial data is based on pre-finalized audit figures.
